

This is all that I can bring today somehow I don't know the sum will tell some ideas might be good, some not separate the brilliant from absurd calculate the price for every speed welcome home, come in, sit down and eat
this is all that I can bring today
somehow I don't know the price we'll pay what if the extracted ones unfold just before the latest haul is sold don't you think we'll both the scaffold meet
welcome home, come in, sit down and eat flowers are closed and lambs are sleeping while the birds are silence keeping flowers are closed and lambs are sleeping I composed the very night here's the place where I can hide turn a blind eye to the day the people we betrayed
here I carry on the dream go in' back to the edges' green to redeem the scars of life for just another dive the feast is over
this is all that I can bring today
somehow I don't know the price we'll pay in the alphabetic sort sequence indicate the most extravagance what if only one of the extracted thoughts repents let me go before the test will end scared to knock when all the knuckles bleed don't you think we'll both the scaffold meet please let the children know not of our crime we've pretended every thought was mine from the gramophone a bitter suite welcome home, come in, sit down flowers are closed and lambs are sleeping while the birds are silencing keeping flowers are closed and lambs are sleeping
I composed the very night
here's the place where I can hide
turn a blind eye to the day
the people we betrayed
here I carry on the dream
go in' back to the edges' green
to redeem the scars of life
for just another dive