

Wait for Me

David Cook

I'm as drunk as the morning sun
A ball of fire and I've just begun
To drink you in
Another picture in a broken frame
And I remember I'm the one to blame
Where do I begin?

'Cause I've been crying salt into an open wound
Since I don't remember when
So as I slowly open up my eyes
Oh, I can see you on the other side
The other side

[Chorus:]
No matter where you go
Yeah, will you let me know?
Will you wait for me?
Wait for me
More than I ever knew
Yeah, all I need is you
Will you wait for me?
Wait for me

Falling faster by the afternoon
Connecting dots around the black and blue
It's sinking in
And I can smell you on my pillowcase
But I may never get to see your face
Here again, no

So I'll keep crying salt into this open wound
Until I feel again
And if I ever open up my eyes
Will I see you on the other side?
The other side

[Chorus]

So I'll keep dying slowly from this open wound
Until you come home again

[Chorus 2x]

I'm as drunk as the morning sun
A ball of fire and I've just begun
To drink you in
