David Gray

Hey now, you got me by the tongue I feel like there's nowhere I belong And they're working it pretty hard And they're selling it by the yard But its more than I can afford That's all that I know

Leader, it comes as no surprise

See now, these are coins that were his eyes

Silver dollars and hoods of steel

Tell me nothing can be revealed

The more you get it the less you feel

That's all that I know

Starts a shivering in my spine

And a fever I can't define

It gets colder the higher you climb

That's all that I know

You kill me with every word you say
I'm dead now, along with faith and chivalry
Silver dollars and hoods of steel
Tell me nothing can be revealed
The more you get it the less you feel
That's all that I know
Colder the higher you climb
Colder the higher you climb
That's all that I know
