

Turn

Deacon Blue

Here I am thinking we're alright
Candle burned, half asleep
Starts to deepen
Then I remember how you looked at him last night
Too soft, too long
Why don't you keep him?

You walk and I'll run
You talk and I'll fight
You cry and I'll shout
You're cold but I'm on fire

And I could turn like an animal that knows you've got a gun
Pointing at her heart only this time you'll better try hard when you run
Cause I could turn like a wild fire that catches on the wind
Only this time, to be certain, just in case you're wondering
I can turn

You know me, I hate getting angry
Cause when there's love, that's enough
I like forgetting
So why do you do it? You just let yourself down
Because you're weak, because you could,
Cause you let him?

You walk and I'll run
You talk and I'll fight
You cry I'll shout
You're cold but I'm on fire

And I could turn like an animal
Now I'm down, don't corner me
Don't make me turn

Only this time, just in case you're wondering
I could turn like an animal that knows you've got a gun
Pointing at her heart only this time you'll better try hard when you run
Cause I could turn like a wild fire that catches on the wind
Only this time, to be certain, just in case you're wondering
I can turn
