

About You

Delight

can't find yourself where the shadows play there is no God so you've got no faith go hide away forget and meet peace in dreams let thoughts melt and tangle let your mouth be sealed mirrors show a face

but the eyes are strange
not yours
can you tell what's real isn't it a dream

not yours

good dreams fade out at the touch of moonlight you go deep for oblivion down in the dark not to feel a thing, always be asleep, somewhere far away
'cause the mundane and bland long for the morning gray

see me
I'm right here to wake you up and fight nightmares off stop running, you can't leave yourself behind I am with you now and I'll always be there by your side say love is the mold that can shape life with sense then it seems only love can wipe away your pain

mirrors show a face

isn't it a dream
