

Trapped in the cage of a biotech lab
Ravenous slaves growling against the masters
Watching the tests they are making on their brothers
Men trembling with fear

Too primitive to catch what they do
They couldn't know they're creating new creatures
With blood in a mix of both races the aliens and men
They know they can

A thousands of years they had spent
To find a world to colonize
This one seems to be perfect except for the men

You found the way to convert human race
And now you have a new face
Your creatures thrive in the land as you have required
They'll call you God, but your name's Elohim

You manipulate the people as you want
I don't know the reason of this bloody hoax
Bringing them plagues and the pain and the sorrow
Then submission
What's this fucking hell

You found the way to convert human race
And now you have a new face
Your creatures thrive in the land as you have required
They'll call you God 'cause your name is Engraved on their mind
Coded in the source code of their soul

You found the way to convert human race
And now you have a new face
Your creatures thrive in the land as you have required
They'll call you God, but your name's Elohim

Elohim
