All the Love in the World

Dionne Warwick

In your eyes I see only one Find me the place for us That's where I belong

There we rise, your glory and mine Your pain is over now I make you shine, still believing

All the love in the world won't take me away from you My love is stronger, I'm what you made me All the love in the world won't take you away from me In all my wonder I forever lay down here with you

I find when love slips away Reach out for all you can Before it's too late

There you fly, returning to me Out of your darkest nights I stand alone, still believing

All the love in the world won't take me away from you My love is stronger, I forever lay down here with you

My love is true
All your darkest nights
I stand alone, still believing

All the love in the world won't take me away from you My love is stronger, I forever lay down here with you All the love in the world won't take you away from me My love is stronger, I forever lay down here with you All the love in the world won't take me away from you
