I Just Have to Breathe

Dionne Warwick

There are things that I did long ago That I don't do anymore We grow out of things Each day is different Than the day before And yet to love you I just have to breathe

There are needs we have When we are young And discard as we mature Time can change so much The only certain thing is Nothing's sure And yet to love you I just have to breathe

It's not an easy place This world we face But I'll face anything As long as that warm morning sun Will always bring me you

There's a time for everything we do When it's over we move on Just true love remains And I'll still love you When all else is gone For me to love you I just have to breathe

In this world where nothing stays the same Stay with me
