Lonely Comin' Down

Dolly Parton

I woke up this morning in a strange place I looked into the mirror at a strange face Then I looked for you but you could not be found And then I felt the lonely comin' down I walked across the room to the empty bed Saw the imprint on the pillow where you laid your head The presence of you still lingered all around And once again I felt the lonely comin' down

Then I felt the lonely dripping down my face As I realized no one could take your place I wondered where the love had gone that we had found And then again I felt the lonely comin' down

I wondered where the love had gone that we had found And again I felt the lonely comin' down

Mmm...