The House of the Rising Sun

Dolly Parton

There is a house down in new orleans
Down in the vieux carre
A house they call the rising sun
Where love and money are made
My father he was a gambler
Mother died when I was young
And Ive worked since then
To please the men
At the house of the rising sun

There is a house Down in new orleans They call the rising sun Its been the ruin of many a good girl And oh god, you know Im one

So mothers you go telling all your daughters Not to do what Ive done To live a life of sin, shame and strife In the house of the rising sun

There is a house in new orleans
They call the rising sun
Its been the ruin of many a good girl
And oh god, you know Im one
Oh god, you know Im one