

Yes

Doris Day

If he asks me, will I stay
And never go away?
I'll tell him, yes
I'll tell him, yes

And if he should hold me fast
And whisper, "Will it last?"
I'll tell him yes
I'll tell him yes, yes, yes
To every question, yes
To every whim

I've no other answer, when it comes to him
Unless he happens to suggest
Perhaps it would be best
If he should go, If he should go
If he asks me, "Wouldn't it be just as well?"
I'll tell him, no
I'll tell him, no

Unless he happens to suggest
Perhaps it would be best
If he should go, If he should go
If he asks me, "Wouldn't it be just as well?"
I'll tell him, no
I'll tell him, no