

Your Goodbye

Downstait

Too long, a life for someone so low
I feel for you, but now it's time

You're not growing old
It's gonna tear you apart from this world
Lose your hold
You're all alone, your final question will never be known

Now say your goodbyes
Take you out the back door begging for
Anyone to help you
Wipe those tears from your eyes
You had your chance, made you plans
Got nothing 'cause it's over, it's over now
Now say your goodbyes

Your tide won't turn
You're defective, retrospective, you were flawed by design
Your loss, you're burned
But now it's time

You're not growing old
It's gonna tear you apart from this world
Lose your hold
You're all alone, your final question will never be known

Now say your goodbyes
Take you out the back door begging for
Anyone to help you
Wipe those tears from your eyes
You had your chance, made you plans
Got nothing 'cause it's over, it's over now
Now say your goodbyes

You'll so cold
You're breathing like a ghost
And you haven't got
The strength to make it right

You'll feel the weight
Push you to the floor
It breaks your back, it breaks in half
And slams the door

Now say your goodbyes
Take you out the back door begging for
Anyone to help you
Wipe those tears from your eyes
You had your chance, made you plans
Got nothing 'cause it's over, it's over now
Now say your goodbyes
Take you out the back door begging for
Anyone to help you
Wipe those tears from your eyes
You had your chance, made you plans
Got nothing 'cause it's over, it's over now
Now say your goodbyes
