Paper thin
They say it always ends like this
There's stains now on your cheeks clenched fist
Now I'll take the risk
And tell you I'm leaving
And tell you I'm leaving

I need you to ask your heart about it
Keep your head up, there's only so much I can do
I see you when I dream about it
Wrap your hands around, it only takes the void from you

Paper thin
They say it always ends like this
There's stains now on your cheeks clenched fist
Now I'll take the risk
And tell you I'm leaving

A feeling, I can live without it I think it's time to move on before we come undone Just tell me how you end up in sadness I hate to see you, see you like this all the time

Paper thin
They say it always ends like this
There's stains now on your cheeks clenched fist
Now I'll take the risk
And tell you I'm leaving

You controlled me already, destroyed everything about me 'Cause I just want to feel like home again

If seeing is believing
Some things in life don't always need explaining
This feeling is changing
You gotta find the freedom in just leaving it all behind

Paper thin
They say it always ends like this
There's stains now on your cheeks clenched fist
Now I'll take the risk
And tell you I'm leaving

(And tell you I'm leaving)
