Waiting
In the calm of desolation
Wanting to break
From this circle of confusion

Sleeping
In the depths of isolation
Trying to wake
From this daydream of illusion

If I seem superhuman I have been Misunderstood

It challenges the essence of my soul And leaves me in a state of disconnection As I navigate the maze of self control

Playing a lion being led to a cage I turn from a thief to a beggar From a god to God save me

If I seem superhuman I have been Misunderstood

Playing a lion being led to a cage I turn from surreal to seclusion From love to disdain From belief to delusion From a thief to a beggar From a god to God save me

If I seem superhuman I have been Misunderstood