

A Matter of Feeling

Duran Duran

How does it feel when everyone surrounds you
How do you deal the crowds just make you feel lonely
What do you say when people are gonna try and pin you down Acquaintances smile but theres no understanding How after awhile you keep falling off the same mountain
Try to explain it but nothing really gets them that high

Steal away in the morning love's already history to you It's a habit you're forming this body's desperate for something new
Just a matter of feeling this moments madness sure to pass
And tears will dry as you're leaving who knows you might find s omething to last

Emotion's a game saved up for a rainy Monday
But your laughter's the same cause it's been pouring on Sunday
Call up your numbers never let the zeros bring you down
How does it feel as time too heavy to hold Whatever you desire for the moment is holy Whenever you slow down to to see life is passing by

Steal away in the morning love's alre dy history to you
It's a habit you're forming this body's despearate for somethin g new
Just a matter of feeling this moments madness sure to past
And tears will dry as your're leaving who knows you might find something to last

You can steal away in the morning love's already history to you
It's a habit you're forming this body's despearate for somethin
g new
Just a matter of feeling this moments madness sure to pass
And tears will dry as you're leaving who knows you might find s omething to last
Oh, oh matter of feeling, oh matter of feeling
When it comes you're still away matter of feeling
When it comes you're still away matter of feeling
You know your tears run dry matter of feeling