The Rain Came Down

Steve Earle

The old man loaded up everything that he owned On a wagon and headed out West The old woman fearlessly faced the unknown 'Cause she figured he knew what was best

And they settled down hard on a government grant With six mouths to feed and forty acres to plant

And the rain came down Like an angel come down from above An' the rain came down It'll wash you away an' there ain't never enough

Fall turned to winter, another year gone Over and over again Some took lives from the land an' moved on Some stayed on to plow it back in

And the Good Lord, He giveth and He taketh away And the restless shall go and the faithful shall stay

And the rain came down Like an angel come down from above An' the rain came down It'll wash you away an' there ain't never enough

And my grand daddy died in the room he was born in Twenty three summers ago But I could've sworn he's beside me this morning When the Sheriff showed up at my door

So don't you come around here with your auctioneer man 'Cause you can have the machines but you ain't taking my land

And the rain came down Like an angel come down from above An' the rain came down It'll wash you away an' there ain't never enough
