i would walk to remember to forget to remember to forget what do i have to offer you the offer is not empty the glass is so full i wish that i could show you proof i know that you are a gift to me i know that you are a gift to me i will lay where i fall little matters anymore no need to fight the tide all that i need is inside i would wait to remember to forget to remember to forget i feel the suns warmth on my face like the most beautiful flower you are lifes gift to me i know that you are a gift to me i know that you are a gift to me i will lay where i fall little matters anymore no need to fight the tide all that i need is inside