

A Good Day

Echobelly

A good day
To watch the world pass you by Pretend
There's a friend in the herd

You ache for the real thing
But it's hard to be sure
A shame
So much love had to die

When all the ones
That bait you come by
And all that matters
Shakes you to your core

Then you remember how it was
Before the clamor of a strange dilemma
Before the flicker of a cold-eyed change
It will never be the same

Regret
Leaves no room for mistakes
You hate
All the more that you love

They say, "It's the same thing?"
But it's hard to be sure
A good day
To watch the world pass you by

Run through it all, run through it all
Does it trigger thoughts that you never told?
Run through it all, run through it all
Does it trigger thoughts that you can't control?

And you remember how it was
Before the clamor of a strange dilemma
Before the flicker of a cold-eyed change
It will never be the same

A good day
To watch the world pass you by