When A Soldier Knocks And Finds Nobody Home

Ernest Tubb

I'm alone with all my sorrow it's so hard to face tomorrow 'Cause I knocked and no one met me at the door I have asked the next door neighbor what you packed and went aw ay for But they only say, you don't live here no more

When I sailed across the blue, I thought I could count on you But I've come back home sweetheart to find you've gone It's a shame you couldn't be here what a sorry sight to see here

When I sailed across the blue, I thought I could count on you But I've come back home sweetheart to find you've gone It's a shame you couldn't be here what a sorry sight to see here
