

Yesterday's Tears

Ernest Tubb

Yesterday's tears are still fallin' yesterday's dreams are still broken

Yesterday's love is still livin' a love that will never be spoken

I've tried so hard to forget dear tried not to spoil everything
You are the one who has given but all you've received dear is pain

My life has been such a sorrow my world has crumbled like clay
My heart has slowly been dying since you told me goodbye that day

Long weary years you have suffered to keep from hurting someone
If only I could repay you for all of the kind things you've done

You have inspired me my darling everything to you I owe

All I can say is I love so much more than anyone knows

So yesterday's tears are still fallin' yesterday's dreams are still broken

Yesterday's love is still livin' a love that will never be spoken