

Helicopters

Falling Up

I couldn't have stopped it, stayed awake
Now caught in the rafters to veil a trace

You covered a vision, it's all I had
Now drink to your poison to feel the stab

Ticking like a time bomb
Ticking like a time bomb

I landed here to breathe
And I landed here to breathe
But I never felt this strange

Await for an inlay to monitor
But notice my hands shake and my vision blurred

Dimming till the light's off
Dimming till the light's off

I landed here to breathe
And I landed here to breathe
And I landed here to breathe
But I never felt this strange

I landed here to breathe
And I landed here to breathe
And I landed here to breathe
But I never felt this strange