

On and off
You told me to wake you up
When the hand reaches the six

I crash over, laying (laying)
My eyes on the road

Help me to hold on to all your foes, they will be the last ones always

You and I are lost can't save this, world if we could see the truth through the lies
But you and I will never be the same
Again

On and Off
The ropes in which I upheld Two lines across your face for every smile you gave to me with love

Help me to hold on to all your foes,
they will be the last ones always

You and I are lost can't save this,
world if we could see the truth through the lies
But you and I will never be the same
Again

I beg myself to watch your face and clear the sin of you away for love the key will always be disguised

You and I are lost can't save this,
world if we could see the truth through the lies
But you and I will never be the same
Again
