

Sunrise

Five Times August

She's looking at sunrise
In the morning light
Left without a reason
She left last night

She's looking at sunrise
Holding hands
Sitting in the backseat
With a selfish man

All she did
Was forget about her problems
Let him use her all he wanted
Now she's still there

She's looking at sunrise
On year eighteen
Thought she knew her own mind
But she don't know what it means

Hearts and Bones
Playing on the radio
Though the singer is a stranger
He just changed her

Now she's trapped inside a day
Where nothing is the same
She just gave herself away
And she don't even know his name

She's looking at sunrise
With lonely eyes
And a baby on the way now
She's got a new life