Suddenly Everything Has Changed

Flaming Lips

Putting all the vegetables away That you bought at the grocery store today And it goes fast You think of the past Suddenly everything has changed

Driving home, the sky accelerates And the clouds all form a geometric shape And it goes fast You think of the past Suddenly everything has changed

Putting all the clothes you've washed away And as you're folding up the shirts you hesitate Then it goes fast You think of the past And suddenly everything has changed