

Say You Will

Fleetwood Mac

Somethin' in you brought out somethin' in me, that I've never been since

That part of me that was only for you,

That kind of romance

Comes only once, that kind of love

That kind of fever dance

That you love because you become someone else in an instant

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance

At least give me time to change your mind

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Somethin' in you put a hold on my heart

It's hard to believe now

Here in the place that will never be dark

I remember that place...

That kind of touch, electricity of love

That certain kind of grace

That you love because you become someone else in an instant

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance

At least give me time to change your mind

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance (say you will)

At least give me time to change your mind (say you will)

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance (say you will)

At least give me time to change your mind (say you will)

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance (say you will)

At least give me time to change your mind (say you will)

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance (say you will)

At least give me time to change your mind (say you will)

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance

Say you will, say you will give me one more chance

At least give me time to change your mind

That always seems to heal the wounds, if I can

Get you to dance
