

What we find in the twilight
Never compares to what we've created here
Picture this in our mind's eye
Hold my hand and we'll make them disappear

There is no reason to be afraid
This cage can hold the disease we've made
It's not fair if you read the final page
A separation of self in a nameless grave

Say the names, read the words
It's time to bring the in to the outside
Don't repeat the things you've heard
We've gone blind watching the stars shine

All that remains is so absurd
You can't tell the day from the nighttime
What you thought was life is now a blur
We all die watching the stars shine

When you have all the answers
The questions mean less than you do to me
We're only doing it faster
Breaking down the world's last community

Embrace the night, suck the fear
That poisons this as the symptoms reappear
Now whisper one final scream
A separation of self into this dream

Say the names, read the words
It's time to bring the in to the outside
Don't repeat the things you've heard
We've gone blind watching the stars shine

All that remains is so absurd
You can't tell the day from the nighttime
What you thought was life is now a blur
We all die watching the stars shine
