

What if the animal inside was not so easy to hide?
Our transformation begins with the truth
And every f*cking thing they say is a lie
Listen to my bones break and turn into something new Everything I was just slipping away
Changing into someone that is nothing like you

Converting strangers to the congregation
Illuminating their lost ideas to light our way
I've become destruction to undo creation
Together we'll tear down the sun to deny the day

What if your instincts decided who you were?
No more following their made-up rules
Or pretending who you are is a f*cking curse
Embrace what's real in a world made of mistakes
Dancing with the devil in the pale moonlight
When it's dark I put on my other face

Converting strangers to the congregation
Illuminating their lost ideas to light our way
I've become destruction to undo creation
Together we'll tear down the sun to deny the day