West Coast

Graham Colton

I've been out looking for the place we were before
You've been looking for a way out
My mind is flooded with the words that came out wrong
You've been living in a blackout

You said that I stuck around too long
I said it now you know
I'm never coming home now I'm leaving
Oh one last thing before I go
I found it all on your phone
I never liked your songs
Now we're even

The weather is better on the west coast
It never rains in southern California
You'd rather talk shit from the corner
You're off and running and you're headed for the west coast

You've been out looking for the ones you never call
You've been trying to blur the background
I felt it coming but the door already closed
Before I could get the word out

I stuck around too long
I said it now you know
This was never home now I'm leaving
Oh one last thing before I go
I never liked your songs now we're even

The weather is better on the west coast
It never rains in southern California
Your friends are only numbers from your best post
You never had it better living on the west coast
You never fit in better living on the west coast

The weather is better on the west coast
It never rains in southern California
You'd rather talk shit from the corner
You're off and running and you're headed for the west coast
You're off and running and you're headed for the west coast
You're off and running and you're headed for the west coast
