

Gone With The Wind

Great White

My heart is empty like cold open ground
Where ghosts and memories follow you round

Replacing old friends no more to be found
All gone their ways with the new stars in town
All of their laughter has drifted away

Gone with the wind like yesterday's song
Gone with the wind like yesterday's song
Gone, gone with the wind, oh

There's no sign of the lover who pins butterflies
No sign of fair-weather, no sweet soundin' lies

Now I'm a stranger, my eyes are set free
Like a man on a mountain, oh how I can see?

All the ways illusions deceive
In a city of prayers where no one believes
When all of your dreams have scattered away

Gone with the wind like yesterday's song
Gone with the wind like yesterday's songs
Gone, gone with the wind
