You have always lived like this
The ice blue chill the dark gray sky
The frozen ground and the helpless feeling of insignificance

You have always lived like this
The day's routine the day's unsure
The day is done and the dreams of being somewhere you can't be

You have always fought the elements they take on different form $\ensuremath{\mathtt{s}}$

There has always been a struggle with the things you can't perf orm

You will always fight the elements they are not in your hands You will always fight the elements unless you understand

Unless you understand Unless you understand that You have always lived like this
