I Remember (It's Happening Again)

Griffin House

My grandpa fought in World War II

My uncle fought in 'Nam

My father was too young

My grandpa fought in World War II

My uncle fought in 'Nam

My father was too young

He went to school and met my mom

And her dad always told us stories around dinner time

And there's one he told when I was young that sticks out in my mind

He said ten years after daddy taught me bout the birds and bees

I was stranded in Pearl Harbor fighting off the Japanese

When the kamikaze pilots came and dove in without warning

I was on the Arizona on a warm December morning

I Remember

When I was a younger man We were soldiers Fighting in a foreign land Now I'm older And it's happening again

It was hard to have forgiveness for the things they did that day And our President decided we should make their people pay So we dropped on Nagasaki and we cut 'em down to size And the one we dropped on Hiroshima left them vaporized And I heard some Christian sing, what would Jesus do What if you were on the wrong side, would he point the gun at you And they read through every word of Matthew, Mark and Luke and John So they could see if killing was the side that Christ was on

I Remember

When I was a younger man We were soldiers Fighting in a foreign land Now I'm older And it's happening again

And they separate the church and state And keep God out of school So our governments can educate

Based upon their rules
But people start to wonder if our politics make sense
When religion is our best excuse for national defense
And when our citizens start saying that our wars are not okay
And Washington keeps telling them God loves the USA
And they teach us history so we can learn from our mistakes
And this generation wants to know how many years it takes
To change the way we treat our neighbors all across the land
Cause if we don't change our hearts we repeat the past again

I Remember

When I was a younger man We were soldiers Fighting in a foreign land Now we're older And it's happening again When my grandpa finished talking
We went walking, he and I
I was thinking of the future and how scared I was to die
Now my best friend's overseas in the desert where it's dry
Fighting for our country and I need a reason why

I Remember
When he was a younger man
Now he's a solider
Fighting in a foreign land
Now we're older
God bring him home again
