Breakin' In Another Heart

Hank Thompson

You're breakin' in another heart To take the place of mine The kind of love I gave to you Is very hard to find

You're breakin' in another heart To try to take my place But have I left of memory That time cannot erase

Can you find another one Who'll love you like I do? One who thinks, you're everything His world is only you

Now that you have made the change I don't think you will find The heart that you're breakin' in Will be as true as mine

When you made him love you so And talkin' what to be I wonder when you kiss his lips Will you think of me?

It's hard to start my life again But what else can I do? You're breakin' in another heart But mine you've broken too
