

I Keep Meeting Girls Like You

Hank Thompson

I used to dream I don't dream anymore I don't believe that dreams come true
Paint through me a curve but I don't deserve to keep me in girls like you
I used to think that someday I would choose the one to love my whole life through
But I'm never chooser I wind up as a loser I keep meeting girls like you
We laugh and cry then say goodbye our love was just a passing thing
A love that's wrong can't linger long but how many heartaches can it bring Maybe I'll get wise and open up my eyes and play the game just like they do
I guess I'll get to be just like my company if I keep meeting girls like you
We laugh and cry
