Push

Helloween

They're spending millions for your thrill Collective desperate overkill Wrapped up in harmless words that grin Forbidden games you'll never win The more you seen the more you know Intended media mind control Shut down and see how beautiful life can be

This is the prime in your lifetime You see through eyes of someone else More than the half of your lifetime Is just a tale in a storybook

Push, enforce your independence Push your real intention Face your unconscious addiction Push your private fiction Push

It's getting sicker frame by frame You're always staring at the same What is a lie, what is the truth? Incredible disgusting news The world is rough, the end is near Just calculation with your fear Without a shame nor least respect The operators stand erect

This is the prime in your lifetime You see through eyes of someone else More than the half of your lifetime Is just a tale in a storybook

Push, enforce your independence Push your real intention Face your unconscious addiction Push your private fiction Push