London, After the Rain

We were with her when the silence came from overhead Considering a message like a form meant to live You, you wanna run back to know what you are And the words too quiet, straight from your arms Running to the sun, and then you hide as you come Now you, you wanna bring that holy peace From off the earth to safety now

Rain down, rain in the moon, rain that is over us Rain down over the London when you cover us Rain down, rain in the full moon, until it's clear, until it's clear

We were with her in the silence all tonight Careful in the minutes to come to take your life The way you run back to know what you are

High Highs
