The Attic

There is someone in the attic Building a strange machine Never really seen him But I think he works all day

Blinded by the world outside I stay inside Hardly know my name But it's getting better by time

I saw something in the mirror

Someone's watching me If I hide in the attic He will never get to me

I found some rope on the floor I have to build a trap So I started on my machine I have never to be seen