

Waves Crash In

Iris

The perfectness of this night
Echoes with the calling of your name
You should be here with this, this way
I could destruct
I could hang on
But what is the difference now you're gone?

I see the stars and the waves crash in
I know that's where you are
Under a midnight sky that's set to fall
Let the sirens call

I reach out to space and you are fading
From your ocean skies lays the something suffocating
Let heaven fall
Hurry the sign
Lace the food and wine
And take this feeling back to where it came from

I see the stars and the waves crash in
I know that's where you are
Under a midnight sky that's set to fall
I'll be lifted though it leaves me up
Though it leaves you far away
All the lights begin
To descend again
And the waves crash in

I did not know
How I had pained the only one
I am so sorry for the labour you have done