

Hall of the Heroes

Iron Savior

Once upon a time in a long forgotten land Warriors are gathering to ride out and defend Mighty steeds are galloping across the baron plains
Right into the storm - bringing thunder and rain
Protectors of the realm
Defenders of the faith
Heroes of all times living for the blade
Keepers of the kingdom - preservers of the crown
Thundering ahead to bring the evil down

Never forgotten
Their deeds will be told
Until the end of time their legends will live on Told by the fire
In the tales of the bold

In the hall of the heroes
In the temple of glory and fame
The fires are burning - the fires are burning
Forevermore - forevermore

Far beyond the oceans in the land of the dark Dreadful hordes of the evil one have gathered and embarked
Skies are turning black as the come ashore
Setting foot to the sacred ground in unholy roar

In grim defiance the heroes appear
Standing the ground with steel in their hands
Time for the battle
Is drawing near

In the hall of the heroes
In the temple of glory and fame
The fires are burning - the fires are burning
Forevermore - forevermore

In crimson stand the heroes still stand
In glorious victory they took the blood of the enemy
Another story to be told
In the tales of the bold

In the hall of the heroes
In the temple of glory and fame
The fires are burning - the fires are burning
Forevermore - forevermore