Now, the towers have fallen So much dust in the air It affected your vision Couldn't see yourself clear

From the fall came such choices Even worse than the fall There's this chain of consequences Within, without

Action, cause and reaction Never follows to plan Black swans on your picnic table Knocking over the jam

Please don't preach me forgiveness You're hardwired for revenge War is just about business Within, without

Hey ma, the boys in body bags Coming home in pieces Hey ma, the boys in body bags Coming home in pieces

Hey ma, the boys in body bags Coming home in pieces Coming home in pieces

War, war, war, war

The dead live on within us
Keep your fingers crossed
We were choking on the smoke and the dust
And the lives that were lost

Scratch the surface of liberals There's a beast underneath Others hiding their Jekyll's Within, without

Hey ma, the boys in body bags Coming home in pieces Hey ma, the boys in body bags Coming home in pieces

War, war, war, war

I can feel the daylight
I can feel the day lightning on me, lightning on me
I can feel the daylight
I can feel the day lightning on me, falling on me
