

Civil War

Jason Michael Carroll

The first round knock me to the ground and left me in the haze
So I fired back with all I have, the mean things I could say
But you rolled over, face the wall and didn't say goodnight
And in the darkness, I could hear you cry

But baby, turn the lights back on, we don't need to hurt no more

We can find where we went wrong, and pick our hearts up off the floor

There'll be only hell to pay, if we're both keep in store
So we need to find a way to end this civil war
To end this civil war

If love is more then I'm sure that we are doing something right
But slamming doors is so much more then lyrics to a fight
This momentary peace won't ease, the doubts inside our minds
Who cares who wins the battle, if this becomes the real goodbye

So baby, turn the lights back on, we don't need to hurt no more
We can find where we went wrong, and pick our hearts up off the floor

There'll be only hell to pay, if we're both keep in store
So we need to find a way to end this civil war
To end this civil war

We are both tired of hurting
And all these fights aren't worth it
Let's make love not war tonight

Yeah baby, turn the lights back on, we don't need to hurt no more

We can find where we went wrong, and pick our hearts up off the floor

There'll be only hell to pay, if we're both keep in store
So we need to find a way to end this civil war
To end this civil war
To end this civil war
