

Driftwood

Jay-Jay Johanson

I heard you knocking on my door One day the driftwood finds a shore I should have opened right away But couldn't find a word to say What ever keeps you wake at night Will also get you through the day Give me some time to think things through It's such a long long time ago
I guess I learn from my mistakes Why did you leave me standing here