Is it any wonder, that something's missing forever more?

It's like there's some other life, that exists outside our door

I wish there was a system, that's employed to help us all

Not just any system, one that keeps the pain indoors