

Today

John Farnham

I thought I'd seen some things
I've seen miracles and dreams
And I never lost my way
Until today, today
I thought I'd seen it all
But now it all has changed
Nothing helps the pain
Not today, today

Things will never ever be the way they used to be
There'll be no more yesterdays
Tomorrow's just the same
Do you remember who you were you were, today
I've tried to take it in
Now I wish it'd just go away, go away
And I never was one to pray
But I'll pray today, today

How I miss those little things
I've kissed beggars kings and queens
I never thought I'd feel this way until today
until today, today

Things will never ever be the way they used to be
there'll be no more yesterdays
tomorrows just the same
Do you remember who you were, you were, today
The piano man has gone

And the whiskey's not that strong, it's not that strong Guess I'll sing this song alone
I'll sing today, today
Yeah today
