

Honey Girl

Jolie Holland

Oh honey girl, let's go see the pretty stars
And talk about your magic superpowers
I think I know where the moon is gonna rise
We can walk around the hill and take it by surprise

Honey girl, let's stay awake all night
And give the dreams no single place to hide
Except between our sweet here and now
And that just might keep the blues from chasing me down

Just might keep from getting the blues
Just might keep from getting the blues

I grab my smokes and I'll walk it off
I round up my friends and talk about it all
Oh, honey girl, you know my song
There ain't no sweet honey girl
Like you in the whole round world

I've got three cities stuck in my heart
And a broken arrow shows me the way to go
Through the valley of tears that I must cross
Just to keep the blues from catching up with me

Just to keep from getting the blues
Just to keep from getting the blues

Oh, just to keep from getting the blues
Oh, just to keep from getting the blues
Oh, just to keep from getting the blues