

How Far You'd Go For Love

Jonatha Brooke

[It is astounding what you will do for love. I had no idea how fierce I could be in the face of dark and treacherous things]

No one knows how far you've fallen
Underneath the spell
You're all alone and no one's calling
But it's just as well, you could never tell

How far you'd go for love
You never know how far you'd go for love
Until you go far beyond what you have ever known of love
For love

There, her hand
Here, your fingers
Holding fast for now
You'd like to go but still you linger

'Cause you don't know how you would live without

How far you'd go for love
You never know how far you'd go for love
Until you go far beyond what you have ever known of love
For love

It's not easy but there's no choice
You listen to her still, small voice and then you know

How far you'd go for love
You never know how far you'd go for love
Until you go far beyond what you have ever known
Far beyond what you have ever known
Far beyond what you have ever known of love
For love
