Marina

Joseph Arthur

Marina coming off of methadone Kickin and dreamin And she's sleeping and screaming Watching 90210 She'll be yelling at the screen Until the late night show

I don't believe I'm alive she said Everyday has something new Aw baby with the moon I lie And with the sun I will rise

It's all there in her eyes
You don't know how hard I try
Each time that Marina cries
It's like she's got no disguise

Marina is a human bicycle
She's riding in the park
Riding after dark
Spinning her wheels to make a psark
Hoping to change her blame into a plague

She plays guitar
She dreams and sings
She writes a song about what it means
That she never feels
Much like a human being
