

Anything

Kate Earl

What is meant to be will be
You can't escape your destiny
So kiss the girl and let her see
That you would do anything
You would do anything anything

What is meant to be will be
It happens over time you'll see
So kiss the boy and set him free
'cause he would do anything
He would do anything anything

When you never take that chance
Then there's nothing worth dying even living for
But everybody knows the saying that goes
All you need is love all you need is love

But you've got to be willing
To give anything anything

All of this suddenly happened
It was nothing before you go
From being alone and empty
To belonging and being with you
I possess the honest pleasure
Knowing what it means to be loved

I would do anything
I would do anything anything anything