

Simple Math

Kathleen Edwards

All these people in my life
Come in and out like a kite
Just bobbing like a breeze in a changing wind
That's just the way it is
Numbers never were my strength
And I barely got a passing grade

You teach me
Love is simple math
I don't care how old we get
I'm just one and you're one and we're two together
I'm okay being friends forever

You and I were only eight
Growing up on the same street
Just bobbing like a breeze in a changing wind
Oh, when you're just a kid
Everything and nothing changes
And now your girls are the same age

You teach me
Love is simple math
I don't care how old we get
I'm just one and you're one and we're two together
I'm okay being friends forever

Safety pins to taper our jeans
We were raising hell in the back seat
Building forts in cedar trees
Ice cream banana seats
Running wild in our bare feet
Everything and nothing changes
And now we are our mother's age

And love is simple math
I don't care how old we get
I'm just one and you're one and we're two together
I'm okay being friends forever

Oh, love is simple math
And I can be a total pain in the ass
And I'm just one and you're one and we're two together
I'm okay being friends forever
