

All This Time

Katie Herzig

Can you see it every little piece of light is spinning in the air tonight
Like something in the afterlife
Can you feel it every little piece of you is bigger than you ever knew
I want to show the world to you

Can you hear it every little noise we make even when we're not awake
We can feel the ground shake
Can you sense it even when you close your eyes
We're living in a world of light and everything is multiplied

All this time it was what we're made for
All this time everything we wait for
All this time we were sailing from the same shore

Can you see it every little piece of light is spinning in the air tonight
Like something in the afterlife
Can you feel it every little piece of you is bigger than you ever knew
I want to show the world to you

How could a shape find its way to where we are
Like a moving star
How could a fate hold me back from where you are
Oh you can't be far

All this time it was what we're made for
All this time everything we wait for
All this time we were sailing from the same shore
