

Same Heart

Keith Urban

Traded in my old Toyota
And I moved outta that shoebox apartment
I've been wearing brand new clothes
Even changed the number on my phone, mmm
Different bars and different streets
Different drinks, different lips
Different parts of town
A different Friday crowd
There's different songs on the radio
Who am I kidding?
Everything's different now
Everything

But the same heart that loved you's still beating
In this chest hard, no matter how far I think I've moved on
There's always gonna be a scar
'Cause I still got the, I still got the
The same heart, ooh
Mmm, mmm
Ooh

I've been going different ways to get to work
'Cause if I go down 12th it still hurts when I pass that corner light
When your laughter in the wanderlust comes flooding back and fills up my car
And I realize that a piece of me will always wonder where you are

The same heart that loved you's still beating
In this chest hard, no matter how far I think I've moved on
There's always gonna be a scar
'Cause I still got the, I still got the
The same heart, ooh
Ooh, ooh
Ooh
But I still got the same heart
Ooh, ooh
Same heart
Ooh

I can say that I'm fine but I'd be lying
It's so hard to move on but I keep trying
Every breath that I take, you're there reminding me
I can say that I'm fine but I'd be lying
It's so hard to move on but I keep trying
It's so hard to move on but I keep trying
I'm lying, I still got

The same heart that loved you's still beating
In this chest hard, no matter how far I think I've moved on
There's always gonna be a scar
'Cause I still got the, I still got the
The same heart, ooh
Oh, oh, oh
I still got the, I still got the
The same heart, ooh
Ooh, ooh
I still got the, I still got the